

How to run the Annual Royal Canadian Legion Remembrance Day Poster and Literary Contest

It's easy to run the Annual Royal Canadian Legion Remembrance Day Poster & Literary Contest in your school:

- 1. Find a volunteer to look after the contest (parents, teacher, etc)
- 2. Supply the information to the students
- 3. Remind the students of the contest through the weeks leading up to the deadline. (we all lead busy lives and need a reminder once in a while)
- 4. Collect the entries from the student and review the registration form to make sure it is complete.
- 5. Bring the entries to your local legion branch hall

I have heard that in the past, some teachers have worked the contest into their school curriculum, but that is up to each teacher to decide if they wish to go that far with the contest. The above outline is a simple way to get your students to enter the 27th National Royal Canadian Legion Remembrance Day Poster and Literary Contest.

The local Ottawa area legion branches are here to assist you with the Remembrance Day Poster and Literary Contest. Please feel free to contact them to assist you.

We are always looking for volunteers to help in this great program. You can help by volunteering to be a judge for the poster and literary parts. Most of the judging is done during the day on the weekend.

Over the past years we have been using local veterans to help with the judging. As time has moved on, our local veterans have found it more difficult to help with this great program. So we are seeking help from our Ottawa-area teachers.
